shrieked in a manner the most terrific that it is possible to conceive. The captain, fearing that he might break loose, ordered the mariners to load and present at Prince. This threat redoubled his rage; and at last the captain desired the keeper to be cast off, and go to his friend. It is impossible to describe the joy evinced by the lion; he licked with care the mangled and bleeding back of the cruelly treated seaman, caressed him with his paws, which he folded round the keeper as if to defy any one renewing a similar treatment, and it was only after several hours that Prince would allow the keeper to quit his protection and return among those who had so ill-used him."

CHEERING INDICATIONS.

We are rejoiced to be able to give, from time to time, details of the progress of pacific sentiments in the community; especially in our colleges and public seminaries, as they are the nucleus, from which may be sent forth abroad over the land, an influence upon the public mind strikingly powerful. In this view, we gladly publish the following extract of a letter from Rev. Howard Malcom to our Corresponding Secretary, dated Georgetown, Kentucky, May 7, 1843.

"Almost every student of this college is on our side. I have delivered an elaborate course of lectures on the subject, and instituted an annual prize for the best essay on peace. I mean to deliver the lectures in this and other towns. If you can spare me some tracts, please do me up a bundle. We have 26 young licensed preachers now students of college, for whom I principally design them. O that a merciful God may bless your labors, and give such disciples as my dear friend Ladd."

We shall be obliged to any of our friends, who may perceive omissions of their names or other errors in the list of life members published in our last number, to give us notice for
